

WARN RESIDENTS OF SHENANDOAH OF CONTINUED CAVE-INS

Miraculously, None Killed or Hurt; Damage Estimate, $1,000,000

CLOSE MANY BUILDINGS

Home-Owners Told to Sleep With Windows Open, So As To Be Warned

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Mar. 5.—(INS)—With damage already estimated at $1,000,000, Shenandoah residents were warned today that a series of cave-ins which yesterday cracked the walls of homes and business places over a 16-block area might continue intermittently for at least two weeks and probably for six months.

Miraculously, no one was killed or injured by the subsidence, despite the fact that nearly 4,000 persons fled their beds when houses suddenly began rocking in a "terrible rumbling" as if from an earthquake.

Borough and State authorities closed all public buildings where cracks an inch to a foot wide split the walls, as home-owners were warned to sleep with windows opened so that they might be awakened by the slightest disturbance heralding a new shifting of the mine-burrowed sub-strata beneath the community.

A town meeting was called for tonight for the purpose of determining what action individual property owners and the borough itself shall take in recovering damages for the subsidence.

Meanwhile, a group representing all interested parties prepared to plunge 1,000 feet below the earth's surface in an attempt to discover the cause of the settlements.

A series of conferences, presided over by Gov. Arthur H. James, who sped to the scene from Harrisburg, failed to disclose any conclusive evidence that recent mining operations had "knocked the props" from under the earth's crust, and laid the surface stratum open to the erosion caused by recent heavy rains.

Mining experts, however, apparently were agreed that one of these two things happened:

1. A "barrier pillar" had eroded and slowly disintegrated because of the heavy rains. A barrier pillar is a section left untouched by miners 1,000 feet beneath the surface as a foundation support of surface property.

2. Main barriers, weakened by improper mining methods, were tunneled through, collapsing with the eroding effect of the rains.

It was Deputy Secretary of Mines Joseph Walsh who predicted—and so informed Governor James—that the settlements might go on for six months.

Should today's investigation raise the possibility of another sharp collapse of the earth's surface, it was understood State and Borough authorities contemplated evacuation of families from the stricken area.

The borough's 22,000 residents remained comparatively calm, despite the ordeal through which many of them passed. They were without water for 10 hours and without gas for 15 hours. Schools were closed, and borough and State Motor Police roped off the affected areas. Volunteer patrols guarded against fires.

The rumblings which forced thousands from their homes into the streets began about two o'clock yesterday morning and ended about noon. Some buildings settled as much as 20 inches, while cracks several feet deep appeared on the streets. Breaks were seen in the walls of a new borough postoffice. A two-foot crack split the walls of the junior high school.

Falls Into River And Drowns Getting Water

BURLINGTON, Mar. 5.—A man was drowned in the Delaware river here yesterday while trying to get a bucket of water for an engine he was operating. The drowned man, Anthony Matarese, 24, Columbus Road, fell into the stream. His body was recovered.

Matarese, who was single, was employed as engineer of a steam train operated by the United States Pipe & Foundry Company, of East Burlington. He drove the locomotive to the company's wharf and then climbed from the cab. He tied a rope on a bucket and was lowering it into the water when he apparently lost his balance and fell in. Other members of the train crew missed him a short time later and spread an alarm.

Police Captain Frank Perry at the city hall was notified and he sent William Hancock, ambulance driver, to the scene with grappling irons. The first aid crews of the Hope Fire Company and the Public Service Corporation were also detailed. The body was taken from the water by other employees of the pipe company. Crews under the direction of Dr. Richard Anderson worked over the victim for some time when Dr. Anderson pronounced him dead.

Coroner James Tomes, of Moorestown, viewed the body and had it removed to Slack's morgue.

Held Under Bail For Driving While Drunk

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 5.—Harry Ridge Quinby, 43, former Justice of the Peace of Carversville, is under $500 bail awaiting the next term of Bucks county criminal court on a charge of operating his automobile while drunk on the Lackawanna Trail, at Edison, near here. Bail was furnished before Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack.

Quinby was arrested by Private Beckhart, of the Doylestown sub-station of Pennsylvania Motor Police, about one o'clock yesterday morning when his car sidwiped another car driven by Oreste Antonozzi, 23, of 127 East Glenside avenue, Glenside. Neither operator was injured.

GRANT THREE DIVORCES REFUSE ONE APPLICANT

Decision Handed Down at A Session of Court of Common Pleas

JUDGE SHULL ON BENCH

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 5.—Three divorces were granted yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks County.

Peter V. Yaeger, Bensalem township, was granted a divorce from Mary C. Yaeger, 5509 Litchfield street, Philadelphia, on grounds of desertion. They were married April 27, 1927, at Cornwells Heights. Judge Hiram H. Keller granted the divorce.

Judge Keller also granted a divorce to William Warren Alger, Newtown, from Hazel Morris Alger, South Belmar, N. J., on grounds of indignities to the person. They were married November 4, 1922.

Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Monroe county, handed down an opinion yesterday in the Bucks county court in which he granted a divorce to Chief of Police James P. Welsh, of Doylestown, from his wife, Nellie Walsh, of Lansford, Pa. The divorce was approved some time ago but an appeal was taken by the defendant and Judge Shull made the final decision yesterday.

Winfield Clayton, 197 West Court street, Doylestown, was refused a divorce from his wife, Viola M. Clayton, Fort Washington, Pa., in an opinion handed down by Judge Shull, of Monroe county. Clayton's reasons set forth were indignities to the person.

Edgely Resident Arranges Affair Honoring Sister

EDGELEY, Mar. 5.—Mrs. John Coulthard entertained a number of friends last evening in honor of the natal anniversary of her sister, Miss Christine Turnbull. Decorations were pink and white, and favors were white nosegays filled with assorted candies. Games, singing and dancing were enjoyed, with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Elwood Britton and John McCoy. A delicious repast was served.

Others present included: Mrs. Owen McCoy and son Owen, Jr., Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. A. Simpson and daughter Dorothy, Trenton, N. J.; Berenice and Lucille Britton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hibbs and children, Fred, Jeannette and Donald, John Coulthard.

Miss Turnbull was the recipient of many gifts.

Methodist Ministers To Attend Phila. Conference

Methodist ministers from all parts of Bucks County will be in attendance during the ensuing week at the annual sessions of the Philadelphia Methodist Conference, to be held in Fletcher Methodist Church, Philadelphia.

Clergymen from all parts of the conference will gather at the call of Bishop E. G. Richardson, who will preside. The opening program is scheduled for tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The conference sessions will continue daily, concluding on Monday with the session which opens at nine a. m.

In conjunction with the conference meetings there will be sessions of affiliated women's groups, laymen's association and Epworth League events.

Bristol ministers attending will be the Rev. J. Carpenter Zook and the Rev. John McElroy.

A Prized Instrument

(By "The Stroller")

In the classroom of Miss Anna Foster, Wood street public school, there stands a small melodeon, of which both the teacher and pupils are very proud. It was formerly the property of the late Miss Bertha Hetherington, who instructed that the musical instrument was to be placed in Miss Foster's classroom.

The melodeon, about three feet high, with attractive case of walnut, has 23 white keys, 16 black, and a small lever which is pressed with the knee for volume of tone. This is used as an accompaniment for room programs.

On the case appears a reproduction of the medal awarded the company manufacturing it by the United States Centennial Commission in Philadelphia, 1876.

LATEST NEWS - - - -

Received by International News Service Leased Wires.

Detain Italian Colliers

London, Mar. 5.—Defying a sharp Italian protest and threatened reprisals, the British government today announced detention of two Italian colliers carrying German coal exports to Italian ports.

The announcement was made in the House of Commons by Ronald H. Cross, Minister of Economic Warfare, who indicated that the British had succeeded already in stopping the flow of coal from Germany into Italy by way of the Netherlands.

Questioned as to whether German coal is being exported in Italian vessels from Rotterdam, Cross said: "That has now ceased."

Announcing a conference, Cross said: "Any ships which now sail as neutral vessels and carrying German coal from Rotterdam are liable to be detained and cargoes confiscated as prizes of war. Already today two vessels have been detained."

Cross' announcement was made following disclosure that all British contraband control authorities had been instructed to hold any vessels carrying German coal.

This action was taken following reports that six Italian colliers loaded with German coal had set out from Rotterdam under orders to break the British blockade and put to an immediate test Great Britain's latest move in the growing economic warfare.

In protesting the British seizure order as an "abusive, and confiscatory proceeding," the Italian government yielded that the Anglo-Italian commercial agreement of 1938 might be abrogated in reprisal.

Leaps To Death

Collingdale, Pa., Mar. 5.—Clad only in pajamas, Mrs. Lillian Preston, 38, fled from her home early today, leaped 40 feet from a railroad bridge and was killed when a Baltimore and Ohio train struck her as she staggered along the tracks.

Mrs. Preston, who returned home recently after eight months in a hospital, climbed onto a bedroom window after sending her husband, Herbert, a letter carrier, to get her some medicine.

SWOLLEN STREAMS CAUSE CLOSING OF HIGHWAYS

Thoroughfares and Lowlands Inundated As Result of Rains, Melting Snow

SEABOARD IS BATTERED

Streams swollen from week-end rains and from melting snow, inundated some highways in this section as well as low-lands last evening and during the night, the result being that motorists found a few thoroughfares closed to traffic. With the lowering of the waters this morning barriers were removed.

Magnolia Road, between Bath and Beaver Dam Roads, was closed to traffic for several hours, and cars detoured. Route 113 at Bridgetown, was overflowed by the Neshaminy Creek, and cars re-routed over other highways; while the same stream likewise overflowed its banks between Newportville and Hulmeville, barriers being erected for a time.

There was a slight rise in the Delaware River at Trenton, although conditions along the banks of the streams were almost normal. United States engineers reported, after ice jams near Trenton melted, there was some floating ice in the stream at Bristol today.

By International News Service

Repair crews struggled in the Atlantic seaboard states today to restore communication and power lines which were broken by one of the most destructive sleet and ice storms in recent years.

The damage was greater in many communities than that wrought by the September hurricane of 1938, officials of utility companies declared.

In scores of communities the scene of destruction was the same. Hundreds of electric and telephone wires snapped under the weight of the heavy ice which sheathed them to a depth of as much as two inches. Trees in forests, parks and orchards snapped and fell to the ground as the weight of the glistening ice became too much for them to bear.

Fire alarm systems in many communities in New York and New Jersey and in New England were paralyzed by the disruption of power lines. Householders were warned by radio to use telephones to report fires.

Scores of factories and schools were closed, the former because of lack of power.

Continued on Page Four

TODAY'S TEMPERATURE

Unofficial reading 7 a. m. 32

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Plans are already in the making for the Fall flower show of The Martha Washington Garden Club, of Washington Crossing.

Committees named to arrange details of the show, which is expected to be a large one, include: building, Mrs. Lamont Slack; advertising, Mrs. Robert Neill; prizes, Mrs. George Duke and Mrs. Byron Meredith; securing the judges, Mrs. Robert Ely; classification of flowers, Mrs. Frank Trego and Mrs. Nelson MacKissie; refreshments, Mrs. Joseph Clark and Mrs. Eugene Kurtz; flower display, Mrs. Odess Long and Mrs. Vincent Shawdys.

The garden club members have joined the Bucks County Council Flower Clubs.

Pearl S. Buck, distinguished Nobel Prize winning writer, is to make her first formal appearance in Doylestown on the night of April 18th.

The first American woman ever to win the international award, Mrs. Buck will be the guest speaker of the Sororist Club of Bucks County, at a dinner-meeting.

Owing to inability to accommodate more than 300 at the meeting, the dinner guests will be limited, according to the club president, Miss Leonore S. Berton. Invitations are being sent to all clubs in Doylestown.

The New Hope Fish, Game and Forestry Protective Association has ordered 20,000 trees shipped to Bucks County for reforestation. The owners of properties where the trees will be planted will be provided with receipted bills from the State Department of Forests and Waters, in order that no lien may be held against them by the commission.

At a recent meeting of the club, members decided to post Ingham Creek until April 15th, when trout season opens.

CLASS YEAR BOOK IS WHIPPED INTO SHAPE

Staff Is Kept Busy With Plans For Record; Photographs Are Taken

INTRAMURAL CONTEST

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the activities in the schools throughout this area.

The year book of the class of 1940, Bristol high school, is being whipped into shape. To date the pictures of all seniors have been taken, as well as those of faculty members. Group pictures include classes and clubs for publication in the year book "Lessons."

The year book staff is composed of: Editorial: William Lynch, editor; Sarah A. Ellis, Jack Healey, Dorothy Ritter, Jayne Lynch, and Virginia Vetter.

Business: Kenneth Winslow, manager; Wayne Locke, Francis Kryven, Elvera Rago, Marie Carango, Anna Warwick, and Jean Argus.

Photography: Morris Carter, manager; Walter Hardy, John Melidjo, Bernardine Coyle, Anna Ennis and Mary Henry.

Characterizations: Helen Harris, Pauline Greco, Helen Dugan, Cecelia Gallagher, Margaret Allen, Grace Bigelow, John Coodrads, Jack Smith, Robert Lemon and Bob Petrick.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors are getting in readiness for the intramural play contest, scheduled for Friday, March 29th.

Choice of plays is decided by the class advisors, who will also be the coaches. Miss Marion Harrison will coach the seniors; Miss Fabian the juniors; and Miss Beale the sophomores.

A set of rules have been laid down, and these include the time limit for each play of 45 minutes, and the appointment of three judges. It will be the duty of the judges, not only to decide which is the best play, but to name who in their opinions are the three individuals giving the outstanding performances.

The date of March 15th has been set as the time when all plays must be entered.

Each class will select stage hands who will be responsible to John Melidjo, stage manager.

THE WRIGHT FUNERAL

TREVOSE, Mar. 5.—Funeral for Samuel Martin Wright, Trevose, who was killed when struck by an automobile early Sunday morning on the Lincoln Highway near Philadelphia city line, will take place tomorrow at 1.30 o'clock in the Union Chapel, near Oxford. Viewing will be at the Horner funeral home, Langhorne, this evening from seven to nine o'clock. The deceased was the husband of the late Sarah Garvin Wright.

ELMER OLSEN, CROYDON, IS SEEKING A PARDON

Robbed Croydon Postoffice Five Years Ago of Stamps, Cash, and Revolver

SPENT 25 YEARS IN JAIL

A Croydon resident, Elmer Olsen, who it is said has spent 25 of his 44 years behind prison bars, will appear before the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons on the 21st of this month.

Sentence was imposed on Olsen on April 1, 1935, when President Judge Hiram H. Keller directed that he serve from five to 10 years in the Eastern state penitentiary. Olsen had pleaded guilty to charges of felonious entry.

Continued on Page Two

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

Deductions From A Poll

Washington, March 4.

THE nervous Democrats in the Senate who one week feel sure that Mr. Roosevelt is hell-bent after a third nomination, and are sure to get it, and the next that they are not going to turn at all, have had their spines considerably stiffened by the most recent Gallup poll on the subject.

AT heart, these Senators are violently against a third term—and most of them are against Mr. Roosevelt, anyhow. In private, they praise Vice-President Garner for his courage in making the fight and tell him that they are with him "one hundred per cent." But, also at heart, they are political pussyfoots, congenial trimmers and wave riders. Frightened

By the open connivance of the President with the third-term managers; aware that any President in his position can force his nomination if he wants it; knowing that he not only approves the Kelly-Nash action of putting him in the Illinois primaries but personally suggested to one of his aides that he become his stooge in the Oregon primaries—frightened by these things, these Senators have been preparing to jump for the third-term band wagon, if and when it comes along.

BUT calm analysis of the last Gallup poll has heartened them a lot. At times politicians do not take this poll seriously; at other times they do. This time they accept it largely because it reflects their own judgment—to wit, that while a third nomination easily can be secured, a third election cannot. Moreover, they think they can prove this to the satisfaction of anyone willing to accept the poll as sound.

FOR example, the Gallup survey

Continued on Page Two

Rev. W. Henry Owens Dies Suddenly of Meningitis

Meningitis caused sudden death yesterday for the Rev. W. Henry Owens, 319 Wilson street. The Rev. Owens, pastor of Bethel A. M. E. Church, had been ill since Friday, and was removed to Abington Hospital, yesterday morning, he succumbing upon reaching that institution.

The clergyman had been pastor of the Bethel Church Wood street, since last Spring. He was a graduate of Lincoln University, where he received his B. S. degree; and also attended the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

The Rev. Owens is survived by his wife, two sons, and his mother.

The body has been taken to Philadelphia for burial.

ADOPT NEW SET-UP FOR SCHOOL COURT LEAGUE

Create Two Divisions of Three Teams Each by Vote of 5 to 1

NOT EVENLY MATCHED

FALLSINGTON, Mar. 5.—The Lower Bucks County School Court League as it existed for the past decade has ceased to be any longer. By action of the principals of the league in a joint coaches-principals meeting held here last night a new alignment for the court circuit was instituted to take effect starting with the next basketball season.

For years the opposition received from Bensalem, Buckingham, and Southampton against Bristol, Fallsington, and Morrisville has been extremely weak. And for that reason the entire league was literally "thrown out of gear" with the former three schools playing away out of their class. This has been a "sore spot" to both groups of schools and has created a problem that seemed almost without a solution, without breaking up the league completely.

Because of that situation both Bristol and Morrisville basketball teams have tried for many years to get into a new league in this section but to no avail. It has always been a question of which school, Bristol or Morrisville, had the stronger team each succeeding year. And as a result the winner of those games always came out on top at the close of the campaign. Since as far back as 1933 and perhaps even further than that, it has been Bristol and Morrisville winning the LBCL court title.

This left the smaller schools in the lurch and actually made the league a two-team circuit except for one year when Southampton finished second and once when Fallsington came in behind Bristol for the title. Because of the lack of competition among the three larger schools and the trio of smaller teams, none of the tilts which pitted those clubs against each other were a financial success whether played on the larger team's court or the smaller school floor. There was no incentive for the fans to come out.

So in the principals' meeting recently a suggestion for a new alignment was offered to the coaches to ponder over at their meeting here last night. The principals offered a plan to divide the league into two sections with Bensalem, Bristol and Morrisville to compose one section and Fallsington, Buckingham and Southampton to make up the other group. But this plan was rejected.

Coach Jimmy Doheny of Fallsington motioned the league be kept intact. But this was also defeated, 4-2. However, E. Leonard Cault of Morrisville High presented the plan that was ultimately accepted by a 5-1 vote. He proposed that the league be divided as follows: Bristol, Fallsington and Morrisville compose the "Lower Division" with Bensalem, Southampton and Buckingham comprising the "Upper Division."

Under this arrangement, however, a playoff game would be necessary to decide

Continued on Page Four

Soviet Planes at Viborg

Helsinki, Mar. 5.—Under cover of great swarms of airplanes, which kept the small Finnish air force grounded, Red Army divisions today struggled slowly from three directions through the mine-studded streets of Viborg.

Finnish land forces were reported holding out in most of the country around the port, while heavy Russian losses were reported from mine blasts in the ruined city.

24th Wedding Anniversary Occasion For Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hazel, 248 Madison street, gave a surprise party Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Hazel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dyer, Madison street, who were celebrating their 24th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Dyer were at the Hazel home when the guests arrived and were presented with many gifts. The party was held in the basement and games and dancing were enjoyed. A delicious repast was served.

Those present: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keers, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Keers, Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch and daughters Jane and Betty, and Mrs. Harry Hinman, Mrs. Jennie Deiterick, Mrs. Ethel Barr, Miss Doris Barr, Mrs. William Hazel, Wilbur Gerlock, Thomas Wilkinson, Kenneth Dyer, Samuel Smith.

TIDES AT BRISTOL

High water 12.04 p. m.
Low water 6.36 a. m., 7.07 p. m.

CLAIMS CAUSES OF ANTI-SEMITISM ARE ENTIRELY SECULAR

Based On Irration Emotions, According To Dr. David Baumgart, Forum Speaker

NOT ON RELIGION

Hitler's Accusations Are Contradictory, Audience Is Informed

"The Psychology of Anti-Semitism" was the subject of Dr. David Baumgart of Pendel Hill at the public forum sponsored by the Bristol Society of Friends, last evening in the Meeting House, Wood and Market streets.

Dr. Baumgart, a former professor of philosophy in the University of Berlin, said that the causes of anti-Semitism are secular, not religious. "These causes are based on irrational emotions, one of which is the strangeness of one community to another. This strangeness leads to distrust, or hatred, or contempt for those who are different. Thus we see antagonism between our nation and another, between farmer and city dweller, and unfortunately, between Gentiles and Jews."

The speaker, a native of Erfurt, Germany, and who studied in various colleges in that country, served in the medical corps during the World War, spending three years on the Russian front, and being decorated with the Iron Cross. In 1920 he received his degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Berlin, being appointed lecturer there in 1924, and serving as professor from 1932 to 1936, when he was dismissed in consequence of the Nurnberg laws. He later served as visiting professor at the University of Birmingham, England.

A second cause of anti-Semitism, according to Dr. Baumgart, is "simple stupidity." "Modern politics and economics are so complicated, the man in the streets never can and never wants to understand the various factors which can produce a crisis in public life. Therefore he looks for a concrete cause of the ills—a public scapegoat."

"Most of Hitler's reasons for anti-Semitism are pretexts for doing away with the Jews. His accusations of them are contradictory when he calls them both 'war mongers' and 'pacifists.' Hitler has also stigmatized the Jews as 'dangerous communists' and at different times as 'dangerous pacifists.'"

"Naturally all Jews are not angels. There are morally and intellectually lower types of mankind in every natural community which cannot select its members. It is anybody's right to avoid intercourse with selfish, insensitive Jews if one does not like Christians of this kind. However there is no logical or moral reason to persecute them on this account."

"The old Jewish prophets were the very originators of that great idea: a world peace union of all nations of this earth. And in spite of all failings and defects of Jews, nobody can deny that we are the only nation to go through 2000 years of world history without arms, without war, but with countless martyrs for the cause of peace and good will."

Following his address Dr. Baumgart answered questions from the audience.

The next and last of the forum meetings was announced for April 8th when E. Raymond Wilson, of the American Friends Service Committee, will speak on "America's Responsibilities for an Enduring Peace."

Leap Year Celebration Occurs For Fallsington Lad

FALLSINGTON, Mar. 5.—A birthday party was held for Glenn Wolfe on Friday, to celebrate his eighth birthday anniversary.

Extra celebration was called for as Glenn is a Leap Year boy, and this was only his second party. He received many presents.

His guests were: Virginia Drews, Carol, Lois and Dale Wolfe, John Williams, Russel Winder, Paul Murray, George and Sherwood Taylor, Walter McIlheny, John Tomlinson, Raymond Sterling, Edward Appenzeller, Mary Jane Mikuriya and brother, William Bux, Anneke and Peter VanKirk, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Wolfe, Mrs. Wilmer Whitlock and daughters, Eleanor and Edith, Fallsington; Mrs. Thomas McIlvaine and daughter Jean, Mrs. Joseph Montague and daughter Dolores, Eugene, Louis and Bruce Prevost, Emille; Mildred and Melvin Carter, Virginia and William Rodgers, Edna Mae and Dorothy Patterson, Morrisville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stone, Harry Jr., Fred, Doris Richards and Janet Stone, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. King and daughter Marilyn, Ardmore; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eckman and grandson, Lester, Coatesville; and Mrs. Anna Wolfe, Paperville.

MEMORIAL MASS

A solemn high mass of Requiem will be celebrated tomorrow on the fifth anniversary of the death of Rosina Scandore Rubertone, mass being said in St. Ann's Church at nine a. m.

Courier Classified Ads bring results and costs very little.

The Bristol Courier

Established 1916
Published Every Evening (Except Sunday)
at Beaver and Garden Sts.,
Bristol, Pa. Bell Phone 846
Only Daily Paper in Lower Bucks County.

BRISTOL PRINTING COMPANY
Owner and Publisher
Incorporated May 27, 1914
Serrill D. Delferson — President
Serrill D. Delferson — Managing Editor
Edith E. Hatch — Secretary
Lester D. Thorne — Treasurer

Subscription Price per Year, in advance, $3.00; Six Months, $1.50; Three Months, 75c.

The Courier is delivered by carrier in Bristol, Edgely, Tullytown, Bridgeville, Croydon, Andalusia, West Bristol, Humesville, Bath Addition, Newportville and Torredale Manor for six cents a week.

JOB PRINTING
The Courier has the most complete commercial printing department in Bucks County. Work of any description promptly and satisfactorily done.

Entered as Second Class Mail matter at the Post Office at Bristol, Pa., under Post Office No. 100, dated May 27, 1914. Postage paid at Bristol, Pa.

TUESDAY, MARCH 5, 1940

SWITCHING ENEMIES

From time to time various writers on international affairs have played with the idea that out of the present situation might come an alliance between the Allies and Germany, their present enemy, against Russia. This is rather wishful in view of the strong interdependence which has grown up between Russia and Germany. It is also based on the hypothesis that either Hitler would compromise with the Allies or else be defeated by them.

On entirely different grounds, Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, retired British army officer, predicts that before the end of this year Great Britain may find herself an ally of Germany. To begin with, he argues that although it would be to Stalin's advantage if the Allies won the war, the Russian dictator will aim at a German victory, not daring to risk being turned upon the Nazi war machine.

He sees Russia already with a larger slice of Poland than Germany got as her share and a control of three Balkan states, to which Finland may be added. Stalin's most profitable course, General Fuller believes, is to penetrate Iraq, Iran, Persia and Afghanistan so that in event of an impending German victory he could push on into India before Japan tried to grab it.

This prospect of a shift of the war arena from the Western front to India would almost force Britain to come to terms with Germany, he continues. But if the economic blockade imposed on Germany by the Allies should show signs of becoming really effective, Hitler would be compelled to come to terms with France and England to prevent the bolshevizing of the Reich and its domination by Russia.

Plausible as this sounds, it is drawing a long bow. Too many things are presupposed. One of them, of course, may come true. Should ruthless war in the air, on land and on the sea begin in the spring and continue at high intensity for the following six months, there is no telling what might happen to civilian morale on each side. Even a realignment might result. The rather discouraging feature is that if Stalin can effect a complete victory over Finland, he stands to gain tremendously from a withering conflict between the Western powers.

NEW WAR FRONTS

Sentiment in Great Britain in favor of more active intervention in behalf of the Finns appears to be gaining strength and the government may be forced to act. It will be remembered that Leslie Hore-Belisha, former secretary for war, recently wrote a series of newspaper articles in which he demanded that Britain enter the fight against Russia with all its forces by land, sea and air.

It is no longer possible to ignore the fact that the Finns are hard pressed. In fact, that is putting it mildly. They suffered serious reverses in the loss of Viipuri and adjacent forts, where the right wing of the Mannerheim line was anchored and in the North they have been driven back by a strong Russian offensive.

The people of Great Britain seem to realize that Russian success in Finland would be a deadly menace to them and they feel the time for action has come. The Allies are working in close co-operation with Turkey, whose army is one strong unit in an aggregate of almost a million men who would be hurled against Russia's southern front.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM SUBURBAN TOWNS

HULMEVILLE

The Rev. Robert Comly, Lancaster, a former pastor of Neshaminy Methodist Church, is ill in a Lancaster hospital.

William Afflerbach, Philadelphia, was a Saturday visitor at the home of Mrs. Charles Afflerbach, Sr.

The next several days will be passed by Mrs. M. R. Meredith and Robert Meredith in Washington, D. C., and vicinity, visiting relatives. The Rev. Meredith, who will be in attendance at sessions of the Methodist Conference in Philadelphia during the ensuing week, will join his wife and son for a brief visit.

FULLYTOWN

Jackie Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chase, has been spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hooley, Morrisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carlen spent Saturday visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schaffer and family, Penn Valley, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schaffer.

Mrs. Frank Cattani, Trenton, N. J., was a Friday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. John Cutline.

Mrs. Michael DiCicco, Bristol, was a visitor Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DiCicco.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hill, Bordentown, N. J., were Wednesday visitors of Elmer E. Minster.

Mr. and Mrs. Etris Wright, Mrs. William Barwis, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Lineberry and daughter Carol were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Lukens, Bristol.

town, N. J., were Wednesday visitors of Elmer E. Minster.

Mr. and Mrs. Etris Wright, Mrs. William Barwis, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Lineberry and daughter Carol were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Lukens, Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Ashby and children were Sunday guests of relatives in Philadelphia.

the unshakably Democratic South as well as in the debatable States of the North and West. If the solid South had been excluded from the survey and it had been confined to the debatable States in which the election will be decided, obviously the popularity percentage of the President would be lower and the percentage against a third term higher.

THAT is one reason; the other seems even more convincing from the practical political angle. Clearly, the Gallup poll is taken among voters who have some opinion and are able to express it in some kind of way. It does not touch the inarticulate voters who have no opinions whatever and could not express them if they had. Of these, as every practical politician knows, there are a great many more than is generally realized. In nine-tenths of the precincts in the country there are certain voters who, if not taken to the registration booths, would not register, and who, after registration, if not taken to the polls on election day, would not vote. Largely they are voters who do not know what the election is about, or, if they know, do not care.

IN a few precincts their number is negligible; in many it is decisive; in most it is sizable. It is common knowledge that these are the voters for whom the machines really compete and that money is the main factor in getting them. If both sides are well heeled, they can divide this vote. But, if one side has the money to hire automobiles, employ watchers, runners, challengers, chauffeurs and helpers of one sort or another, at from $5 to $15 or $20 a day, and the other side lacks that kind of money, the side with the money gets that vote and the other side does not.

NO one with any experience at all in precinct politics will dispute this statement. In the coming campaign the odds are great the Republicans will have every advantage in this competition, because they are certain to have most of the money. Indeed, for a third-term campaign it is difficult to see where the Democrats could get enough money to fight for this vote. It is true there are within the New Deal a number of fat very likely bother about an American who could have no official standing. Now do you see why it's so important that we shouldn't be seen to do it?

"It begins to percolate. Smuggled arms, eh? Well, it's a bad business, but I still don't see why destroyers are sent to ferry us around the Mediterranean."

"Neither do I," the British agent admitted. "I expect I'll be told in Cairo. The chief's given me carte blanche as to assistants—er—colored laborers, rather. He hastily corrected. 'At the same time he warned me we'd be in continual deadly peril; this Armstrong's a cunning, merciless devil. Believe me, Hugh, when Sir Giles talks like that, it's no moonshine.'"

"Weird?" In the darkness Hugh North smiled, listening with all his attention, let his body yield to the great vessel's hitch and rolling. "I see. Dracula's loose again?"

"Don't joke!" snapped Room 38's agent. "Every one of the victims was found wearing a woman's red-and-black garter fastened about the left arm!"

Incredulous laughter escaped North. "Come off it! Even for Cairo that's too fantastic."

"Sounds like it," the other admitted. "But it's true, every word I've told you. Worst of it is the killings have been so carefully done, the usual methods of the Anglo-Egyptian police have gotten them nowhere. To say they're desperate is putting it mildly—they'd have to be before

As he crossed the threshold he drawled, "Why these hide-in-the-dark tactics? Ghost stories, or is second childhood creeping up on you?"

More earnestly than politely Kilgour invited his guest to visit a spot where ice water was extremely scarce and invited him to take a seat, asking:

"Do you think anybody knows for certain we came aboard last night?"

North hesitated, then shook his head. "No, but a ravishing young dame called Natika Black seemed disturbingly suspicious. Why?"

"When I was swarming up that ladder I saw someone looking out of a porthole alongside. They were close enough to have recognized us if there was enough light."

"Um! Isn't that nice? Well, maybe they didn't get a really good look," Hugh North drawled, but for the first time he began to consider the situation as something more than an unexpected lark. "You don't really think there's anything to worry about on this boat?"

"Don't see how there could be," Kilgour muttered slowly. "But I'd keep a weather eye out if I were you. What do you make of your table mates?"

"I'll confess I'm a bit curious as to why I've been thrown with so unusual a crowd. There's nothing commonplace about them. It wasn't accidental, I take it?"

It was, Kilgour dolefully assured him, no accident.

North whistled to himself, sat up. "Just what do you mean, Bruce?"

"Not that these people are suspects, or anything of the sort, but our M. I. (Military Intelligence) thought it wise for you to make some contacts that may prove valuable in Cairo."

Kilgour's pipe glowed in the restlessness of his hand, momentarily illuminating his face with a gleam of features. "I presume you've read about a series of brutal murders around Cairo. It's as weird a series of crimes as you've ever heard of."

"They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook," Major Kilgour explained. . . .

they'd ask Scotland Yard to help them catch Mr. Armstrong."

"Mr. Armstrong?"

Across the cabin Kilgour struck and held a fresh match to his pipe. They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook. What do you think?"

"The garters indicate it—else why should anyone bother with trademarking a series of victims? Armstrong, I take it, is a pseudonym bestowed by your friends in Cairo?"

"Yes, and that's all they have done to him to date."

"Hold on, Bruce, you're Military Intelligence and so am I. This business sounds like a straight police job."

Kilgour sucked hard on his pipe, sent a tiny ghost of white smoke whirling across Captain Diston's very comfortable cabin. "These murders tie up with a sudden spurt in the gentle art of gunrunning. Certain troublesome Arab tribes have recently been, and still are being, supplied with modern weapons. Our garrisons all through lower Asia Minor have been having the very devil of a time. See where we fit?"

North nodded. Gunrunning, eh? His mind looped back and pounced upon the names "Heineman and Schlager." Like the propellers of a ship getting under way his imagination commenced to turn over.

"All I know is that there's a terrible, dangerous mess brewing. I'm bringing you down to Cairo, Hugh, for the very good reason that while this Armstrong person might be watching every Englishman who might be a detective you're one of the last persons the man we're trying to catch would suspect. He'd not

NEWPORTVILLE

Mrs. George Enry was hostess to the Cheerful Workers at her home on Wednesday evening. A social time was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Robert Haggerty returned to his home Thursday evening from Frankford Hospital, a few scars to show for the ordeal he recently suffered in an automobile accident. He is to return to the hospital in three weeks for X-rays and a check-up.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schumacher and son George visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reed, Penn's Park, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutzler have changed their place of residence from Laing's Gardens to Burbank, Calif.

WEST BRISTOL

Mr. and Mrs. George Schumacher and son George visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reed, Penn's Park, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutzler have changed their place of residence from Laing's Gardens to Burbank, Calif.

EDGELY

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Pettit and son George, Cedarville, N. J., spent Saturday with Mrs. Venora Dewsnap, who is ill.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Headley Manor Fire Company will hold a meeting tonight in the fire house.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Ashby and children were Sunday guests of relatives in Philadelphia.

the unshakably Democratic South as well as in the debatable States of the North and West. If the solid South had been excluded from the survey and it had been confined to the debatable States in which the election will be decided, obviously the popularity percentage of the President would be lower and the percentage against a third term higher.

THAT is one reason; the other seems even more convincing from the practical political angle. Clearly, the Gallup poll is taken among voters who have some opinion and are able to express it in some kind of way. It does not touch the inarticulate voters who have no opinions whatever and could not express them if they had. Of these, as every practical politician knows, there are a great many more than is generally realized. In nine-tenths of the precincts in the country there are certain voters who, if not taken to the registration booths, would not register, and who, after registration, if not taken to the polls on election day, would not vote. Largely they are voters who do not know what the election is about, or, if they know, do not care.

IN a few precincts their number is negligible; in many it is decisive; in most it is sizable. It is common knowledge that these are the voters for whom the machines really compete and that money is the main factor in getting them. If both sides are well heeled, they can divide this vote. But, if one side has the money to hire automobiles, employ watchers, runners, challengers, chauffeurs and helpers of one sort or another, at from $5 to $15 or $20 a day, and the other side lacks that kind of money, the side with the money gets that vote and the other side does not.

NO one with any experience at all in precinct politics will dispute this statement. In the coming campaign the odds are great the Republicans will have every advantage in this competition, because they are certain to have most of the money. Indeed, for a third-term campaign it is difficult to see where the Democrats could get enough money to fight for this vote. It is true there are within the New Deal a number of fat very likely bother about an American who could have no official standing. Now do you see why it's so important that we shouldn't be seen to do it?

"It begins to percolate. Smuggled arms, eh? Well, it's a bad business, but I still don't see why destroyers are sent to ferry us around the Mediterranean."

"Neither do I," the British agent admitted. "I expect I'll be told in Cairo. The chief's given me carte blanche as to assistants—er—colored laborers, rather. He hastily corrected. 'At the same time he warned me we'd be in continual deadly peril; this Armstrong's a cunning, merciless devil. Believe me, Hugh, when Sir Giles talks like that, it's no moonshine.'"

"Weird?" In the darkness Hugh North smiled, listening with all his attention, let his body yield to the great vessel's hitch and rolling. "I see. Dracula's loose again?"

"Don't joke!" snapped Room 38's agent. "Every one of the victims was found wearing a woman's red-and-black garter fastened about the left arm!"

Incredulous laughter escaped North. "Come off it! Even for Cairo that's too fantastic."

"Sounds like it," the other admitted. "But it's true, every word I've told you. Worst of it is the killings have been so carefully done, the usual methods of the Anglo-Egyptian police have gotten them nowhere. To say they're desperate is putting it mildly—they'd have to be before

As he crossed the threshold he drawled, "Why these hide-in-the-dark tactics? Ghost stories, or is second childhood creeping up on you?"

More earnestly than politely Kilgour invited his guest to visit a spot where ice water was extremely scarce and invited him to take a seat, asking:

"Do you think anybody knows for certain we came aboard last night?"

North hesitated, then shook his head. "No, but a ravishing young dame called Natika Black seemed disturbingly suspicious. Why?"

"When I was swarming up that ladder I saw someone looking out of a porthole alongside. They were close enough to have recognized us if there was enough light."

"Um! Isn't that nice? Well, maybe they didn't get a really good look," Hugh North drawled, but for the first time he began to consider the situation as something more than an unexpected lark. "You don't really think there's anything to worry about on this boat?"

"Don't see how there could be," Kilgour muttered slowly. "But I'd keep a weather eye out if I were you. What do you make of your table mates?"

"I'll confess I'm a bit curious as to why I've been thrown with so unusual a crowd. There's nothing commonplace about them. It wasn't accidental, I take it?"

It was, Kilgour dolefully assured him, no accident.

North whistled to himself, sat up. "Just what do you mean, Bruce?"

"Not that these people are suspects, or anything of the sort, but our M. I. (Military Intelligence) thought it wise for you to make some contacts that may prove valuable in Cairo."

Kilgour's pipe glowed in the restlessness of his hand, momentarily illuminating his face with a gleam of features. "I presume you've read about a series of brutal murders around Cairo. It's as weird a series of crimes as you've ever heard of."

"They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook," Major Kilgour explained. . . .

they'd ask Scotland Yard to help them catch Mr. Armstrong."

"Mr. Armstrong?"

Across the cabin Kilgour struck and held a fresh match to his pipe. They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook. What do you think?"

"The garters indicate it—else why should anyone bother with trademarking a series of victims? Armstrong, I take it, is a pseudonym bestowed by your friends in Cairo?"

"Yes, and that's all they have done to him to date."

"Hold on, Bruce, you're Military Intelligence and so am I. This business sounds like a straight police job."

Kilgour sucked hard on his pipe, sent a tiny ghost of white smoke whirling across Captain Diston's very comfortable cabin. "These murders tie up with a sudden spurt in the gentle art of gunrunning. Certain troublesome Arab tribes have recently been, and still are being, supplied with modern weapons. Our garrisons all through lower Asia Minor have been having the very devil of a time. See where we fit?"

North nodded. Gunrunning, eh? His mind looped back and pounced upon the names "Heineman and Schlager." Like the propellers of a ship getting under way his imagination commenced to turn over.

"All I know is that there's a terrible, dangerous mess brewing. I'm bringing you down to Cairo, Hugh, for the very good reason that while this Armstrong person might be watching every Englishman who might be a detective you're one of the last persons the man we're trying to catch would suspect. He'd not the unshakably Democratic South as well as in the debatable States of the North and West. If the solid South had been excluded from the survey and it had been confined to the debatable States in which the election will be decided, obviously the popularity percentage of the President would be lower and the percentage against a third term higher.

THAT is one reason; the other seems even more convincing from the practical political angle. Clearly, the Gallup poll is taken among voters who have some opinion and are able to express it in some kind of way. It does not touch the inarticulate voters who have no opinions whatever and could not express them if they had. Of these, as every practical politician knows, there are a great many more than is generally realized. In nine-tenths of the precincts in the country there are certain voters who, if not taken to the registration booths, would not register, and who, after registration, if not taken to the polls on election day, would not vote. Largely they are voters who do not know what the election is about, or, if they know, do not care.

IN a few precincts their number is negligible; in many it is decisive; in most it is sizable. It is common knowledge that these are the voters for whom the machines really compete and that money is the main factor in getting them. If both sides are well heeled, they can divide this vote. But, if one side has the money to hire automobiles, employ watchers, runners, challengers, chauffeurs and helpers of one sort or another, at from $5 to $15 or $20 a day, and the other side lacks that kind of money, the side with the money gets that vote and the other side does not.

NO one with any experience at all in precinct politics will dispute this statement. In the coming campaign the odds are great the Republicans will have every advantage in this competition, because they are certain to have most of the money. Indeed, for a third-term campaign it is difficult to see where the Democrats could get enough money to fight for this vote. It is true there are within the New Deal a number of fat very likely bother about an American who could have no official standing. Now do you see why it's so important that we shouldn't be seen to do it?

"It begins to percolate. Smuggled arms, eh? Well, it's a bad business, but I still don't see why destroyers are sent to ferry us around the Mediterranean."

"Neither do I," the British agent admitted. "I expect I'll be told in Cairo. The chief's given me carte blanche as to assistants—er—colored laborers, rather. He hastily corrected. 'At the same time he warned me we'd be in continual deadly peril; this Armstrong's a cunning, merciless devil. Believe me, Hugh, when Sir Giles talks like that, it's no moonshine.'"

"Weird?" In the darkness Hugh North smiled, listening with all his attention, let his body yield to the great vessel's hitch and rolling. "I see. Dracula's loose again?"

"Don't joke!" snapped Room 38's agent. "Every one of the victims was found wearing a woman's red-and-black garter fastened about the left arm!"

Incredulous laughter escaped North. "Come off it! Even for Cairo that's too fantastic."

"Sounds like it," the other admitted. "But it's true, every word I've told you. Worst of it is the killings have been so carefully done, the usual methods of the Anglo-Egyptian police have gotten them nowhere. To say they're desperate is putting it mildly—they'd have to be before

As he crossed the threshold he drawled, "Why these hide-in-the-dark tactics? Ghost stories, or is second childhood creeping up on you?"

More earnestly than politely Kilgour invited his guest to visit a spot where ice water was extremely scarce and invited him to take a seat, asking:

"Do you think anybody knows for certain we came aboard last night?"

North hesitated, then shook his head. "No, but a ravishing young dame called Natika Black seemed disturbingly suspicious. Why?"

"When I was swarming up that ladder I saw someone looking out of a porthole alongside. They were close enough to have recognized us if there was enough light."

"Um! Isn't that nice? Well, maybe they didn't get a really good look," Hugh North drawled, but for the first time he began to consider the situation as something more than an unexpected lark. "You don't really think there's anything to worry about on this boat?"

"Don't see how there could be," Kilgour muttered slowly. "But I'd keep a weather eye out if I were you. What do you make of your table mates?"

"I'll confess I'm a bit curious as to why I've been thrown with so unusual a crowd. There's nothing commonplace about them. It wasn't accidental, I take it?"

It was, Kilgour dolefully assured him, no accident.

North whistled to himself, sat up. "Just what do you mean, Bruce?"

"Not that these people are suspects, or anything of the sort, but our M. I. (Military Intelligence) thought it wise for you to make some contacts that may prove valuable in Cairo."

Kilgour's pipe glowed in the restlessness of his hand, momentarily illuminating his face with a gleam of features. "I presume you've read about a series of brutal murders around Cairo. It's as weird a series of crimes as you've ever heard of."

"They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook," Major Kilgour explained. . . .

they'd ask Scotland Yard to help them catch Mr. Armstrong."

"Mr. Armstrong?"

Across the cabin Kilgour struck and held a fresh match to his pipe. They conclude that all these murders were done by one super-clever crook. What do you think?"

"The garters indicate it—else why should anyone bother with trademarking a series of victims? Armstrong, I take it, is a pseudonym bestowed by your friends in Cairo?"

"Yes, and that's all they have done to him to date."

"Hold on, Bruce, you're Military Intelligence and so am I. This business sounds like a straight police job."

Kilgour sucked hard on his pipe, sent a tiny ghost of white smoke whirling across Captain Diston's very comfortable cabin. "These murders tie up with a sudden spurt in the gentle art of gunrunning. Certain troublesome Arab tribes have recently been, and still are being, supplied with modern weapons. Our garrisons all through lower Asia Minor have been having the very devil of a time. See where we fit?"

North nodded. Gunrunning, eh? His mind looped back and pounced upon the names "Heineman and Schlager." Like the propellers of a ship getting under way his imagination commenced to turn over.

"All I know is that there's a terrible, dangerous mess brewing. I'm bringing you down to Cairo, Hugh, for the very good reason that while this Armstrong person might be watching every Englishman who might be a detective you're one of the last persons the man we're trying to catch would suspect. He'd not the unshakably Democratic South as well as in the debatable States of the North and West. If the solid South had been excluded from the survey and it had been confined to the debatable States in which the election will be decided, obviously the popularity percentage of the President would be lower and the percentage against a third term higher.

THAT is one reason; the other seems even more convincing from the practical political angle. Clearly, the Gallup poll is taken among voters who have some opinion and are able to express it in some kind of way. It does not touch the inarticulate voters who have no opinions whatever and could not express them if they had. Of these, as every practical politician knows, there are a great many more than is generally realized. In nine-tenths of the precincts in the country there are certain voters who, if not taken to the registration booths, would not register, and who, after registration, if not taken to the polls on election day, would not vote. Largely they are voters who do not know what the election is about, or, if they know, do not care.

IN a few precincts their number is negligible; in many it is decisive; in most it is sizable. It is common knowledge that these are the voters for whom the machines really compete and that money is the main factor in getting them. If both sides are well heeled, they can divide this vote. But, if one side has the money to hire automobiles, employ watchers, runners, challengers, chauffeurs and helpers of one sort or another, at from $5 to $15 or $20 a day, and the other side lacks that kind of money, the side with the money gets that vote and the other side does not.

NO one with any experience at all in precinct politics will dispute this statement. In the coming campaign the odds are great the Republicans will have every advantage in this competition, because they are certain to have most of the money. Indeed, for a third-term campaign it is difficult to see where the Democrats could get enough money to fight for this vote. It is true there are within the New Deal a number of fat very likely bother about an American who could have no official standing. Now do you see why it's so important that we shouldn't be seen to do it?

"It begins to percolate. Smuggled arms, eh? Well, it's a bad business, but I still don't see why destroyers are sent to ferry us around the Mediterranean."

PARTIES

....

SOCIAL EVENTS

....

ACTIVITIES

Guests Attending Party
Honor A Local Resident

Livingston Joyce, Fillmore street, on Saturday evening was honored by several friends in celebration of his birthday anniversary.

Cards were enjoyed and prizes given to Mrs. Erle Oliver, Mrs. Albert Loehner, Howard Case and Albert Loehner.

Refreshments were served and favors given.

The invitation list included: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loehner, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Case, Miss Dorothy Case, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Erle Oliver, Langhorne; Mrs. Edna Singley, Camden, N. J. Mr. Joyce was the recipient of several gifts.

Events for Tonight

Dance, benefit of Tullytown Home and School League, Wright's Inn, Tullytown.

In a Personal Way

INTERESTING bits of news mainly about people you know. A chronicle of the activities of the people of Bristol; their goings and comings. . . .

Miss Jean Wilson, 1527 Wilson avenue, entertained over the week-end, Miss Betty Keys, Philadelphia.

Miss Jean Thomas, Gettysburg, returned today from a visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, Madison street.

Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, Trenton, N. J., was a Thursday overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulligan, Corson street.

Thomas Morrissey, Burlington, N. J., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Snyder, Buckley

Explains Cause Of Stomach Ulcer Pains

In simple language, the cause of most acid stomach ulcer pains is the passage of food through the stomach, irritating the exposed nerves on the sensitive surfaces, thus frequently causing burning, tearing or dull aching pains. Udgas Tablets contain bismuth, which medical science has found coats and protects the sensitive parts, also other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udgas for relief of ulcer and stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, for heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udgas Tablets are safe to use and must help or your money refunded. At United Cut Rate and good drug stores everywhere.—(Advertisement.)

Today's Quiet Moment

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

Heavenly Father, instruct us and teach us in the way which we should go; guide us with Thine eye. Our fears vanish when we believe that Thou art near us for friendly guidance. We pray for keener insight to know Thy will, and for greater moral power to walk in Thy ways. Amen.

street. Mrs. Morrissey and son, Thomas, Jr., who have been paying a week's visit at the Snyder home, returned to Burlington on Sunday.

Mrs. John Cunningham and daughter Mary Ann, South River, N. J., spent Thursday until Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nealis, Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKeown, Mt. Airy, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wistar, 270 Harrison street. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rafferty and daughter Ellen, Avon, N. J., spent the week-end with Mr. Rafferty's sisters, the Misses Rafferty, Buckley street. Charles Rafferty, New York, week-ended at his home on Buckley street.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Luff, Vineland, N. J., was christened in the Sacred Heart Church, Vineland, on February 25th. The baby was named Donald George, and sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Weed, Vineland. Mrs. Luff was formerly Miss Harriet Lippincott.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wallace, Maple Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. George Irwin, Mulberry street, left Sunday for Miami, Fla., where they will remain for three weeks.

Mrs. David Neill, 613 Beaver street, and Mrs. Wesley Bunting, Wood street, attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Mary Lupton, Haddon Heights, N. J., on Monday.

James Neill, Jr., Roosevelt street, recently accepted a position with Rohm & Haas Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagel and family, former residents of Bristol, who moved to Buffalo, N. Y., returned to Bristol and have taken up their residence at 1040 Radcliffe street.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gelak have moved from 248 Hayes street to Trenton, N. J.

ALLSINGTON

Mrs. Barbara Gaskill gave a shower for her daughter Irene, who was recently married to Earl Driscoll. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Applegate and children, Miss Dorothy Gaskill, Miss Margaret Wiederspahn, Miss Evelyn Mercer, Miss Betty Beffert, George Mansmanor, "Billy" Leip, William Gaskill, Frank Gaskill and Peter Boski.

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL THEATRE

"The tougher the character the better"

JUST GIVE ME
'blue coal'
AND I'LL GIVE YOU PLENTY OF NICE, STEADY, EVEN HEAT

'blue coal' makes home heating easy—saves money, too

'blue coal' is the finest hard coal money can buy, prepared especially for home use.
It's an all-weather fuel—starts up fast on zero mornings—burns long, evenly and completely.
It's America's finest anthracite.

FRANK WIGHT FUEL CO., INC.

PHONE: BRISTOL 417

TUNE IN ON "THE SHADOW" EVERY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Fire Sweeps Race Track

Phonephoto

At least five thoroughbred horses perished near Baltimore, Md., in these flames as fire swept Bowie Race Track stables housing horses in training for the coming racing season in Maryland. Three volunteer fire departments from nearby towns were called to help bring flames under control.

ter I like it," insists Cary Grant, who views with alarm the constant effort on the part of Hollywood and of film fans to turn him into "just a romantic leading man." Grant has no desire to be cast as a modern Adonis.

In that respect, at least, he's adamant. Otherwise, the film capital knows him as a pretty swell guy who seldom raises his voice in protest. Particular in demanding roles which have the breath of life to them, Grant has recently been seen in such splendid films as "Holiday," "Gunga Din," and "Only Angels Have Wings."

GRAND THEATRE

Numerous Hollywood records tumbled when work began on "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," the gigantic, spectacular version of the Victor Hugo classic which is now at the Grand Theatre.

The largest number of movie extras for a single production in history—close to 3,500—was transported to the location by a caravan of 95 big passenger buses, the longest parade of its kind ever assembled for picture purposes. They were taken to the biggest sets in screen history, full-sized, vast reproductions of sections of 15th century Paris, including the famed

REDUCE
... this easy way

• You needn't starve yourself to get the slender figure you admire. There's an easy and pleasant way to lose fat! Simply do this:

Eat 2 slices of HOLLYWOOD BREAD at every meal in place of fattening foods. This delicious bread is filling, but not fattening. Baked without lard, kind! Low in calories. High in the energy of 8 delicious garden and sea vegetable flours—none of which are fattening.

Start today to slenderize the easy way.

BAKED BY Freihofer's
Try Hollywood BREAD

Tuesday

LAST TIMES
Bargain Matinee
Today at 2:15

GRAND

COMING

Wednesday
Bargain Matinee
Wed. at 2:15 P. M.

LAUGHING

WITHIN THAT MISHAPEN BODY BEATS THE GREATEST HEART IN ALL PARIS

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

Six Celtic HARDWICKE Thomas MITCHELL Maurice O'HARA Edward O'BRIEN

NOTE: Owing to the length of this production we advise you to come and be seated early in order to fully enjoy this great show.

DRAMA

OF A MAN'S HEART CAUGHT IN THE "DIVORCE MILL" HE CONSTRUCTED FOR OTHERS

RENO

with RICHARD DIX GALE PATRICK ANITA LOUISE HOBART CAVANAUGH ASTRID ALLWYK

Also Wednesday!

Free To The Ladies:—

22-Kt. Etched Gold Dinnerware or Blue Foot Stemware

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

A. RUSSELL BURTON
SALES REALTOR RENTS
PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
Small Farms, 1 to 6 A., $1800-$6000
Excellent G. H. & B. Homes, $2250 up
List H. O. L. C. Props., Bristol & Vic.
Ph. Bristol 3200 502 Radcliffe St.

PHILA. EXPRESS
DAILY TRIPS
FARRUGGIO'S EXPRESS
901 Mansion St. Dial 2953
Philadelphia: 7 N. Front Street
Phone Market 3548

Matinee Daily
2 P. M.
Adults 15c
Children 10c
Eve. from 6:30
Adults 25c
Children 10c

Bristol
BUCKS COUNTY'S FINEST

Living Sound!
Complete Shows!
Ample Parking!

THE YEAR'S WILDEST, WITTIEST WHIRLWIND
OF A LOVE AND LAFF SHOW!

CARY GRANT
ROSALIND RUSSELL
"HOWARD HAWKS"
His Girl Friday
with RALPH BELLAMY
GENE LOCKHART • Helen Mack
Based on a play by BEN HECHT and CHARLES MACARTHUR
Directed by HOWARD HAWKS

Added—"Popular Science" "Late News Events"
Extra! "Happy Tots' Expedition"—Color Rhapsody

IT'S FAMILY NIGHT TONIGHT — 40c
AND THE WHOLE FAMILY RELAXES — 40c
Special Family Ticket Admits 2 Adults Plus 2 Children
Sold at Box Office only

Wed. and Thurs.:—"Money To Burn"—Newest Higgins
Family Hit and "Treachery of The High Seas"

PROUD PARENTS ARE RECEIVING FREE
THEIR CHILD'S PHOTO — AND A CHANCE FOR FAME AND FORTUNE — COMPLETE DETAILS
AT THEATRE — CONTEST ENDS MARCH 20TH

RADIO PATROL

EDDIE SULLIVAN
and CHARLIE SCHMIDT

TOWER of LONDON
starring
BASIL RATHBONE
with
BORIS KARLOFF

Wednesday and Thursday
"Rio," with Basil Rathbone
and
"Down Wyoming Trail"
Tex Ritter

PROFY TEAM EARNS RIGHT TO MEET THE ROHM & HAAS FIVE

Mill Street Team Defeats The Manhattan Five by Score of 50 to 47

SERIES STARTS THURS.

Winner of Series Will Then Play Grundy Team For Championship

Better marksmanship from the foul line plus expert shooting by Ray Dorsey and Johnny Slaven gave the Profy team a well-earned 50-47 victory over the Manhattan Soap Company five last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. The triumph gives the Mill Streeters the right to meet Rohm and Haas in a three-game series. The winners of this series will meet the Grundy five for the championship.

The boys from downtown arched the ball into the net twelve times from the foul line in 17 tries, this represented the margin of victory for the soap workers made but nine in 19 tries. Both clubs scored a total of 19 field goals.

Johnny Slaven found his scoring eye in the final session of the game and registered a quartet of goals to bring his total of the night to 7. Dorsey sunk in the winning double-decker which came in the final minute of the game and also brought his total of field goals to the total of 7.

"Charlie" Hughes did not do much scoring from the field but did a yeoman's job from the foul mark, shaking the nets for six out of six tries. "Punkie" Zeffries, Manhattan, and Gus Carnvale, of the winners, who usually do good work from the foul line flunked last night, both scoring but three times out of eight and seven tries, respectively.

The first half of the game ended with the count, 21-20, in the Profy team favor. Punkie Zeffries' four two-pointers and a trio by Nick Hufnell kept the Manhattaners in the tilt at this stage of the game and in the third period it was Joe Snyder who kept the gap between the two clubs at a close range.

The first game of the Profy-Rohm and Haas series will be played Thursday night.

Profy's (50)	P.G.	F.G.	F.T.	Pts.
Slaven f	7	1	1	15
Dorsey f	7	0	0	14
Bornice f	0	1	1	1
Hughes c	1	6	6	8
Klein g	0	0	0	0
Profy g	2	1	2	5
Carnvale g	2	3	7	7
	19	9	19	47

Manhattan (47)	P.G.	F.G.	F.T.	Pts.
Zeffries f	6	8	8	12
Hufnell f	5	2	2	12
Snyder c	5	1	3	11
Vitale c	0	0	0	0
Gallagher g	1	2	2	4
Barbetta g	0	0	1	0
Mulligan g	2	1	3	5
	19	12	17	50

Score at half-time: Manhattan, 20; Profy, 21. Referee: Derrick. Timer: Tunto. Time of periods: 10 minutes. Scorer: McElroy.

Tonnage Sunk By British

London, Mar. 5.—Total British mercantile tonnage sunk by enemy action since the European war began amounts approximately to 620,000 tons, it was announced officially today. Two-thirds of these shipping losses have been replaced by new construction and by ships captured from Germany, thereby leaving a net loss of one-third of the actual sinkings, the government statement said. German shipping losses resulting from sinking and captures to date totalled approximately 271,000 tons, representing 22 ships captured by the allies and 25 scuttled by their crews, according to the British figures.

The London News Chronicle reported that a 6,717-ton British steamer, Pacific Reliance, was sunk by enemy action off the western coast of England but that all 56 crew members reached a Cornish port safe and unhurt last night.

Meet Miss Florida

Posing prettily with her trophy is Cedille Perkins, 21, of Miami Beach, who won title of Miss Florida in bathing beauty contest in Miami.

THROUGH, AT LAST - - - By Jack Sords

THIRD WARD A. C. WINS OVER FIFTH WARD CLUB

The Third Ward A. C. proved that it was master of the Suburban League by scoring a 19-16 triumph over the Fifth Ward Sporting Club last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor. Fifth Ward had been the only club to beat the Pikers thus the Third Warders avenged their defeat, and remained supreme in the Suburban League class.

Fifth Ward deserves plenty of credit for the uphill battle it staged in the second half, but the Pikers had too large of an early lead to overcome, the first half score being 14-4.

Third Ward (19)	P.G.	F.G.	F.T.	Pts.
Di Angelo f	0	0	0	0
Dillasio f	0	0	0	0
Peterpaul f	0	0	1	0
Melillo f	0	0	0	0
Caro c	2	1	4	6
Mayo g	0	0	2	0
Capecci g	3	3	7	9
Pico g	1	0	1	2
Mancini g	0	0	0	0
	6	4	15	16

Fifth Ward (16)	P.G.	F.G.	F.T.	Pts.
Grimes f	2	2	3	6
Carter f	1	0	0	2
Kallenbach f	2	1	1	5
Stewart c	0	0	1	0
Jones g	0	0	0	0
Profy g	0	1	1	1
Kryven g	0	1	1	1
Dugan g	2	0	1	4
	7	5	11	19

Score at half-time: Third Ward, 14; Fifth Ward, 4. Referee: Derrick. Timer: Tunto. Time of periods: 8 min. Scorer: McElroy.

COMING EVENTS

Organizations whose announcements are printed in this column can reciprocate by having all printing in connection with announced events done by the publishers of this paper. Information must be complete when first given as alterations cannot be made after they have once been put into type.

Mar. 6, 13—Covered dish luncheon served by St. Agnes Guild, Church of Redeemer, Andalusia.

Mar. 6—Lenten covered dish social, 6 p. m., in Christ Church parish house, Eddington, sponsored by choir. Covered dish luncheon served by St. Agnes' Guild in Church of Redeemer parish house, Andalusia, 12:30 p. m.

Mar. 7—Card party in St. Paul's Chapel, Edgely, 8:30 p. m. Mar. 8—Card party by Ladies' Auxiliary, in Cornwells Fire Co. station, No. 1, 8:30 p. m. Pet show at Bristol Community Center, 7:30 p. m.

Mar. 9—Bake sale in Bristol Presbyterian primary room, 11 a. m., conducted by Women's Bible Class. Card party given by Catholic Daughters of America, in Knights of Columbus home at 8:30 p. m. Card party by Jos. A. Schumacher Post Auxiliary in the post home, Croydon, 8:30 p. m.

Mar. 13—Covered dish luncheon in Church of Redeemer parish house, Andalusia, 12:30.

Mar. 14, 15—Annual "gym" exhibition and circus by students in Bensalem H. S. gymnasium, Cornwells Heights.

Mar. 16—Card party in Red Men's Hall, S. Langhorne, 9 p. m., for Blue Moon Hosiery employees' sick benefits.

Mar. 18—Card party by American Legion Auxiliary in Bracken Post home, 8:30 p. m.

Mar. 19—Card party at Edgely school house, sponsored by P. T. A.

Mar. 20—Supper, 5 p. m., and dance, 8 to 12, in Newportville fire station, benefit Newportville Boy Scouts.

Adopt New Set-Up For School Court League

Continued from Page One
The final champion of the league who would then represent the circuit in the

P. T. A. A. Tournament at the close of the season. Therefore, the "Upper Division" titlists will clash with the "Lower Division" champs at the end of the campaign on a mutual floor.

As a result of the action Bristol and Morrisville will not play either Buckingham or Southampton on the court next season unless either gets in the playoffs against the Cards or Bulldogs. The dividing of the loop is worked out along similar lines with the present baseball circuit and the new football set-up.

This arrangement will also vitally affect the girls' court league next season also inasmuch as their loop, too, was divided in the same manner as the boys' circuit with Bristol and Morrisville composing the "Lower Division" and Bensalem, Buckingham and Southampton as the "Upper Division."

The winner of their respective circuits will play the preliminary tilt to the boys' game in the final playoffs for the championship over the entire league.

The principals also suggested a few more proposals regarding the athletic program of the Lower Bucks Schools for the future. Their proposals were as follows:

1. All Lower Bucks County League football games to be played on Saturdays unless such games can be arranged for on other days between the two participating schools.

2. The hockey and basketball circuits be limited to only one league game a week throughout the season.

3. Baseball games were to start promptly at 3:30 with the visiting team to have the field by three o'clock.

All these proposals were adopted with a slight modification to the stipulation that the visiting baseball team to have the field at 3:00. The coaches pushed that time back 15 minutes. Under the new basketball set-up, it is now possible to play all league games on Fridays, while all but one LBCL grid game and the annual Thanksgiving Day clashes will be played on Saturdays.

Allen Tomlinson, chairman on the tennis tournament, reported that that tourney would be held all day Saturday, May 25, at George School's courts. Five schools, Bensalem, Bristol, Langhorne, Morrisville, and Newtown and probably Buckingham, all signified desire to enter four-man teams in such a tournament.

DAILY HOT SHOT!!

For WEDNESDAY Only

YOU CAN'T EVEN TIE IT — LET ALONE BEAT IT — 19c VALUE IN MEN'S RUBBED ATHLETIC

SHIRTS or SHORTS 3 PAIR FOR 25c

WATCH OUR DAILY HOT SHOT On This Page — And In Our Window 12 Years of LOYALTY To Our Customers A Reputation Justly Earned For Our VALUES

MARTY GREEN'S ARMY & NAVY STORE

237 MILL STREET

Charles Beck, in charge of the golf tournament, had no further report since he was awaiting word from Mike Derrick on the Yardley Country Club Course but the latter wasn't present. Therefore, the golf tournament is still pending final details to be ironed out in the near future. However, Bensalem, Bristol, Langhorne, and Morrisville all signified their desire to enter such a tournament.

Speaking of golf, the coaches decided to hold a tournament among themselves at the close of the league baseball season some time in June. Tom Campton of Bristol, John Hoffman of Morrisville, and Mike Derrick of Yardley were appointed as committeemen to arrange for such an outing.

Swollen Streams Cause Closing of Highways

Continued from Page One

power and the latter because of the fear that children might be harmed by the fallen power lines or by falls on the ice-coated streets.

The damage was estimated in the hundreds of thousands. Huge waves whipped up by the northeasterly wind pounded the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Maine, adding to the destruction.

About 1,000 of the 2,000 fire alarm boxes in the Bronx were put out of order. Emergency forces of police and firemen were stationed at the boxes to relay fire alarms.

The damage to trees alone in New York City parks was estimated officially at about $600,000 to $700,000.

The two-day rain was estimated to have added some 15 billion gallons of water to the city's depleted reservoirs, considerably alleviating the current shortage.

Another bright spot was the comparably light report of pedestrian and automobile accidents.

Some 5,000 homes in Westchester County were darkened by broken power lines which also paralyzed oil heating systems.

You pay a low price to begin with... You buy no more gas or oil...

AND YOU GET AN "8" NOT JUST A "6"!

WHEN every high-priced car made in America today has 8 cylinders or more... why should you take less in your new car? In a Ford you get an "8"... at low cost... and with operating economy proved better than either leading low-priced "6" again in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run. With it... you also get the most important fine-car "features" ever put together in a single low-priced car!

FOR THE GOOD THINGS THAT COUNT MOST OWN A FORD!

8-Cylinder Performance with proved best gas mileage among all three leading low-priced cars in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run!
The Ride of the Year! Soft, quiet, safe, and with high tire mileage!
Longest Springbase in any Low-Priced Car!
Finger-Tip Gearshift on Steering
Post! Positive, easy-acting mechanical type, not dependent upon engine. All models, no extra cost!
Biggest Hydraulic Brakes in any Low-Priced Car!
New Front Window Ventilation Control!
Sealed-Beam Headlamps! Longer life, 60% better light.

FORD V-8

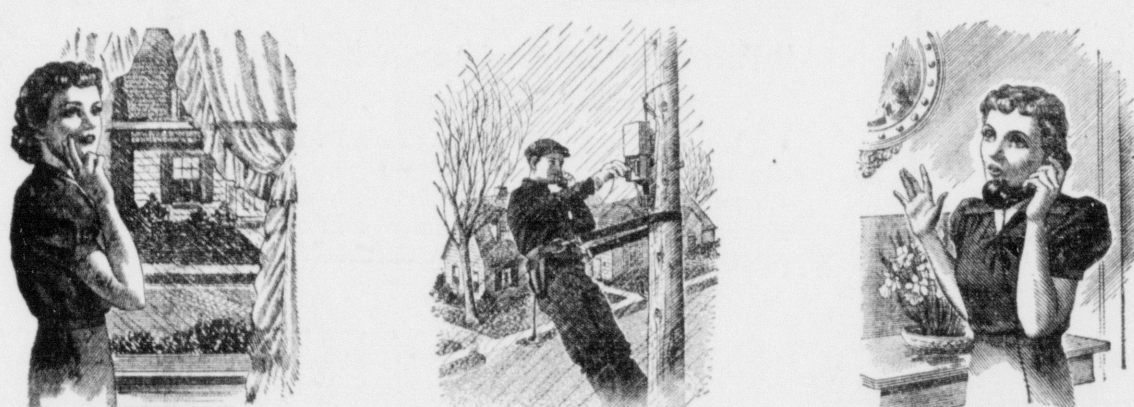

OUR "8" IS BETTER THAN A "6" AND COSTS NO MORE TO RUN

BUCKS COUNTY SALES & SERVICE

BRISTOL, PA.

SEE YOUR FORD DEALER FIRST FOR LOW-COST FINANCING

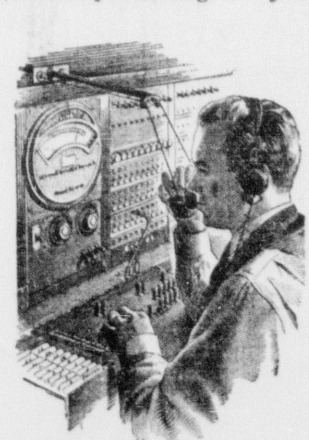

The Strange Case OF THE INTERRUPTED CALL

1 It was about 10 o'clock one blustery, wet morning in March. Mrs. M... took one look at the weather and decided to order her groceries by telephone. As she was about to dial the grocer's number, her telephone rang.

2 A strange voice came over the line. "Hello," it said, "this is a telephone repairman. I'm outside your house, about to do some work on your line. That is, if it won't inconvenience you. I'll be through in a jiffy."

3 "That's all right. But I didn't report any trouble on my line!" exclaimed Mrs. M... "In fact, there's nothing wrong with it that I know of. So how did you know it needed repairs?"

4 "Oh, that's easy, Mrs. M...," laughed the repairman. "We were making a routine test on your line and we found a condition which might not bother you now, but might interfere with your service later. So we're fixing the trouble before it troubles you."

5 "My goodness!" said Mrs. M... "I don't see how you can discover trouble before it happens. It seems impossible!" "Well, lady," answered the repairman, "it isn't so hard when you have the right kind of testing equipment at the central office and people who know how to use it."

6 Here's the apparatus which makes such magic possible. It's an electrical testing machine, and it's extremely sensitive. With it a trained tester can not only detect wire trouble miles away, but tell what the trouble is and exactly where it is. A regular electrical Sherlock Holmes!

Using the equipment and methods described saves us a great deal of time, trouble and expense, of course. But of even greater importance is the fact that it helps us keep your telephone service more and more free from imperfections and delays—ready to run your errands, to help with your shopping, to make life easier and more enjoyable. This is one of the many things we do to keep the quality of telephone service up—and the cost of the service down. Number please!

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

